Final Year Students Attending a Seminar on Career Planning Process

He also mentioned that the career planning process never ends. At various points in our career, we may seek additional training or designations that can help us to continue to pursue our goals. In some cases our career may take new turns or we may choose to redefine ourselves and our goals. Whatever phase we may be at in our career, taking the time to plan will help to keep us focused and on a goal-oriented path.

He also explained that we can attempt to go through the career planning process on our own, or we can work with a career development professional who will help facilitate our journey. Working with a mentor or career development professional can be a great way to better understand the work we chosen career involves and also to learn about new opportunities we may not have been aware of within our industry.

The seminar was attended by 17 students of CSE Department.
